Parkwood Hall
CO-OPERATIVE ACADEMY

“Develop your career through growth in personal and social learning”

A rare opportunity presents itself in this vacancy to work in this genuinely unique day and residential school for students with moderate to severe learning difficulties. For confident but caring leaders interested in developing and broadening their careers, the Deputy Principal’s role for Teaching and Learning is a great career move.

Located in 78 acres of woodland in north-west Kent, Parkwood Hall is run on the cooperative values of honesty, openness, social responsibility and caring for others. Housed in adapted and modernised Victorian buildings, facilities offer good scope to design and deliver the highly specialised and holistic curriculum, we ensure that all the professionals working with and on behalf of the students do so in a fully integrated manner.

With a passion to make the learning exciting and work well in this setting, your work with the leadership team to drive the school’s vision to maximise the potential offered by the curriculum, grounds and academy freedoms is sought.

Advantages include:

- A highly individualised approach to meeting the learning needs of pupils
- A strong vision and drive for whole school improvements
- Opportunities to further develop the learning environments for pupils
- Experienced staff including those with specialist expertise and therapists
- Ongoing demand for student places both day and residential

If the challenge of working with an inspired leadership team to bring to fruition our belief, vision and mission inspires you and you enjoy working with and promoting a collaborative approach to deliver the best for young, special people then your application is welcomed. If you seek to optimise every opportunity, thrive within and can support other leaders to build a motivational working environment, are resilient, can be flexible and seek innovative solutions, then this role will offer you excitement, interest, goals and the opportunity to make your mark and enhance your professional career.

Application procedure: Visits to our school are warmly welcomed prior to application. To request a candidate pack and application form, arrange a visit, or for a confidential discussion please contact:
